EARLY SETTLERS.

The beautiful and picturesque town of Fairfield is situated on the western side of the Kennebec river, three miles north of Waterville, and 26 from Augusta. It is the most southerly town in Somerset county, and is bounded on the north by Norridgewock and Skowhegan, on the east by the Kennebec river, on the south by Waterville and Oakland and on the west by Smithfield. Its total area is about 42 square miles. The surface is broken only by low hills and is generally an excellent farming town. The name chosen because of its fair appearance is by no means a misnomer for some of the handsomest fields to be found in the state are located in this town.

Who the first white man was to settle within the limits of the township we are unable to state. It is probable that the banks of the river were explored long before any permanent settlements were made, as the river formed the principal thoroughfare then in use. We are told that when Colonel Benedict Arnold was raising volunteers to join his famous expedition up the Kennebec in 1775, that David Emery enlisted in September that year leaving his farm on what is now the River road in this town. We also find that Samuel Emery was born in Fairfield, June 15, 1773, being the first white child born in this town. So we conclude that Mr. Emery was the first settler that we have any record of at this time.

Peter Pushard was probably the first to locate permanently in the southern part of this town. His cabin was built on the lot now occupied by the beautiful residence of Chas. Lawrence in about 1774 according to data given us.

About 1780 William Kendall came here having bought up most of the land now occupied by the village. He erected a log cabin near the upper end of the island and dug the cellar upon which he not long after built the first frame house in the village. This house still stands and is now occupied by his grandchildren, Mrs. Carter and Mr. Wm. F. Kendall. In 1781 it is supposed he built the first saw and grist mills. These he located on the upper end of the natural canal which has furnished power for so many mills during the past century and a quarter. On Christmas day 1782 he married Abigail Chase at Noble's Ferry, near the present Good Will Farm, and drifted down the river in a birch canoe to the home thus prepared in the wilderness. They had eleven children, Capt. William Kendall was a soldier of the Revolution. He enlisted March 12, 1777, and served three years. He with Mr. Emery, who was also a soldier, is buried in the Emery Burying Ground.

Elihu, Harper, and Zaccheus Bowerman came here from Falmouth, Mass., 1782. These and other members of the same family settled near the central part of the town and were among the leading men of the early settlement, as well as now being represented by many prominent descendants.

Some of the early settlers on the River road running south of David Emery's, who has already been mentioned, were Capt. Isaac Chase, who had five sons and seven daughters, all of his sons holding some military office during their lives; Esq. Low, who settled on the lot afterward sold for its water power and upon which Shawmut now stands; George Hobbs, noted for moving buildings; Rev. Wilson Colcord, who labored on his farm during the week, and in the pulpit on the Sabbath; Benj. Burrill; Davin Pearson, known as the neatest, and perhaps the thriftiest farmer on the road; Wilson Colcord Jr.; Timothy Osborne; Andrew Hanson, John Durrell and James and Samuel Emery, who settled on Emery Hill. They built a saw mill just above the location of the present bridge on the stream which it is said ran much stronger then than now.

Samuel Tobey was another of the early arrivals in the town. He had a family of eleven children. Many other settlers arrived during the six years following, and in 1788, the Plantation was incorporated into a town.

The following list of tax.payers dated "Oct. 17, 1798" gives the names of all the heads of families in the town at that date. We copy it in full.

THEODORE SEDGWICK, Speaker.

In Senate, June 18th, 1788.

This bill having had two several readings passed to be enacted.

SAMUEL PHILLIPS, President.

Approved, JOHN HANCOCK.

The first warrant was directed to Samuel Tobey, and the first meeting held in the dwelling house of Seth Fuller on the 19th day of August 1788. Daniel Cony, Esq. was chosen moderator; Samuel Tobey, town clerk; Josiah Burgess, Elihu Bowerman, and Joseph Town, selectmen and assessors; Samuel Tobey, treasurer; Gideon Holway, constable; and Joshua Blackwell, collector. Tything men, and other necessary officers were also elected.. The second meeting was held the following March at which John Mandal was elected constable. Much attention was given to the early roads, many were laid out and accepted by the town, and at this meeting £100 was raised "in labor" to be worked repairing the roads in the town, the price allowed for man's labor being four shillings, and that for oxen three shillings per day. John Tozer and Joseph Town were also chosen a committee to see that the fish were not taken on "unlawful days."

At the meeting held the next month at the home of Israel Blackwell, the town threw its first vote for governor; the record says there were 15 votes for John Hancock.

1792, Feb. 21. Voted that Deacon John Tozer and David Parsons take a new valuation of the estates of Fairfield. Voted to notify the meetings by posting warrants, one at Nathan Chase's mill, one at Daniel Wyman's, and one at Lemuel Tobey's, these being the places most central or most commonly frequented.

1796. Voted $20 to cover Martin Stream bridge.

1797. Voted for separation of state; yeas, 36; nays, 22.

1802. Town meeting held in the new meeting house. Previous to this the meetings had been held at the homes of several of the citizens. (This meeting house was situated at Fairfield Centre, and was used for some time as a meeting place for transacting town business, in 1847 the town purchased it of the pew holders who had previously bought the church of the town, and it was used as the town house until that body began its sessions at the village.)

1808. Voted that wheat, rye and corn be a legal tender in payment of taxes, the prices to be 6s, 5s and 4s, per bushel respectively.

1819. Vote on separation of the District of Maine to form a separate state, yeas, 117; nays, 26.

1861. The votes thrown by the town for the presidential elections were: Lincoln, 354; Douglass, 69; Breckenridge, 19; Bell, 13.

1873. Meetings held in Andrews' Hall until a suitable place be provided.

1872. Bunker Island annexed.

Nov. 17, 1883. Voted to adopt new Standard time to take effect Sunday, Nov. 18, 1883, at noon.

The foregoing items speak for themselves, we give them as of general interest to the citizens of the town.

Industrial Account.

About the year 1781 Gen. William Kendall then the owner of the farm upon which Fairfield village now stands took the initiative step in the development of the power which nature had contributed to his possessions, building a small mill for sawing lumber, on the channel, in the rear of our present Main street, and later, erected a grist mill near the same. Mr. Kendall manufactured lumber, operated his grist mill and worked his farm for many years. In the year 1820, when Maine became a state of the Union he mortgaged his farm and mill property to N. Gilman et als, for the sum of nine hundred dollars to obtain money with which to increase his facilities for manufacturing. This was probably the first aggressive movement looking toward the establishment of a business center at this point. Mr. Kendall was without doubt, sagacious enough to see in the future something like success to the party who should utilize the splendid water power, but, did his son George just then entering manhood, have the faintest idea that he would live to see the comparatively wild tract of land, then their broad fields and pastures, teem with important industries and that electric lights, city water, electric cars, etc., would be the outcome of the development of the power which they were then in possession of? About this time Gen. Kendall erected a small store in the vicinity of the "great willow" on Water street, where provisions and New England rum could be obtained. This was the first store. In the year 1823, July 31st, Gen. Kendall purchased of John Hancock for one hundred and ninety dollars seventeen cents a certain piece of land containing ninety-nine acres bounded easterly by the Kennebec river, westerly by a road, northerly by lots 8 and 9, southerly by lots 6 and 10. This piece was known as lot No. 7 on a plan of part of the great lots C. 1, and C. 2.

Prior to the year 1834 Mr. Kendall had deeded parcels of land and interests in the power, to different individuals among whom were Moses Hanson, John Deering, John Woodman, Joseph Banks, Albert Bradbury, Benjamin Burrill, Milton Philbrook, Alpheus Lyon, George and John Kendall, John Osborne, B. L. Deering, et als, all of whom about this time transferred their several interests in the property to Samuel Weston—Samuel Weston deeded same to Cushing Mitchell et als, they to Samuel Guile et als, who constituted what was then known as the Boston Company. At this time there was a dam extending across the mill pond from a point where E. Totman & Co's. former mill stood, to a point on the west shore, some five or six mills, including the old Kendall grist mill, had been built on this dam and about this time a woolen mill was erected just south of the same on the bank of the pond.

The lumber from these saw mills was thrown from the tail of the mill into the river below, rafted, and run down the river to tide water, where it was loaded into vessels and shipped to market. The Boston Company operated it for a number of years.

Finally this row of mills crumbled to decay. The old dam yielded to the power of time and the Company erected the first long "Block of Mills," which stood where the mills of N. Totman & Sons, A. H. & C. E. Duren and S. A. Nye were afterward located. About the year 1845 the Boston Company sold their interest in the property to the Fairfield land and mill association, the individual members were William Connor, Simon Connor, Ezra Totman, Nahum Totman. These owners in April 1846 by quit claim deeds divided the property of the association so that William Connor became proprietor of three eighths, taking mills Nos. 1, 2, 15, and 16 in the block, Simon Connor became the owner of the inland mills property and E. & N. Totman formed a copartnership, and became proprietors of 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8, and John Kendall became proprietor of 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 in the block. John Kendall afterwards sold his interest to Clark and Bragdon. This block of mills was destroyed with the pail factory which had been built and occupied by Cheney Bros., in the year 1856, and another block similar in construction was erected the following season. This block was destroyed in the great fire of 1882. The old woolen mill, that stood near the first row of mills, was removed and was operated by Old Scudder for manufacturing the famous Scudder Matches. Each mill in the long block represented eight hundred inches of water, but how and by whom the total power was ascertained is a question which no one now living can tell, presumably the Boston Company calculated the power at the time of the purchase.

The mills constructed by N. Totman & Sons, A. H. & C. E. Duren, and Stephen A. Nye after the big fire of 1882 were burned in 1895 when fire again swept through the manufacturing district. The building of the Fairfield Grist Mill has remained for many years near the scene of these several fires. This was built at Shawmut, then sold to H. C. Newhall in 1854. and moved to this village. It passed through the hands of several owners before it was bought by F. J. Savage in 1882. Mr. Savage is the present owner.

Present Day Industries.

Space admits of but brief mention of the present industries.

First among these we would mention the Kennebec Mills of the American Woolen Co, whose fine brick mill situated on the island gives employment to about 200 hands and whose payroll amounts to some $100,000 annually. The main mill is of four stories, each 100 x 200 feet and a dye-house 40 x 75 feet, modern and improved machinery is used and the product is of superior grade goods. S. G. Hall is the resident agent.

The Somerset Division of the United Boxboard and Paper Co., located on the upper end of the island, was established in 1882. This mill consolidated with the Kennebec Fiber Co. in 1900, and entered the combine in 1902. The Little Mill, so called, located farther down stream was built in 1900. The product of these mills is shipped largely to the Hollingsworth & Whitney Co. at Waterville. Geo. W. Powers is Manager, Edwin F. Parker, Supt. upper mill, John Noble, Supt. little mill. Two hundred hands are employed.

The S. A. Nye Mfg. Co. is one of the leading industries of Fairfield. The goods manufactured are the famous Steinbach novelties, consisting of desks, chiffoniers, stands, chairs, folding tables and other wood furniture. The business was established in 1870, and reestablished and augmented in 1895 and incorporated in 1902. Around 50 hands are regularly employed, and the business is increasing, at the rate of from $500 to $600 per month. The amount of business done during the month of June amounted to $3600. S. A. Nye is president; F. B. Purington, treas. and manager.

The C. H. Knowles Furniture Co. was established in 1900. Upholstered parlor furniture, spring couches, Turkish chairs and rockers, davenport and parlor chairs are a specialty, and Morris chairs are also made. The business is located on Main street. Ten men are employed. Chas. H. Knowles is manager.

The Fairfield Furniture Co., manufacturers of extension tables, have been established about two years. They employ about 35 men. S. T. Lawry is manager.

The Bell-Donnelly Mfg. Co. located on Main street, was established in 1901 and the company incorporated in 1903. Electrical and machine work is done and steel belt fasteners manufactured. W. E. Bell, Manager.

The F. H. Brown Clothing Co., doing business in the basement of the Opera House, are among the largest manufacturers of ladies skirts in the state. The company's products have a merited reputation for their general excellence and thorough workmanship. The factory is modernly equipped and occupies floor space 45 x 90 feet. 40 skilled employees are kept busy, and nearly $60,000 worth of business done annually. The business was established in 1889 and the company incorporated in 1895. H. F. Burgess is president, F. H. Brown treasurer and manager, while H. S. and H. O. Brown, sons of F. H. Brown are connected with the business.

Crummett & Bragg operate the roller mill on Main street. This is a steel roller mill, no stones being used as in the earlier days. The present owners bought the mill of Jewett Pratt Feb. 1, 1901. It had been built by him about ten years earlier. Eight hands are employed on an average.

The Portland Packing Co. have packing house No. 12 located near the river where a large business is done each fall. There are numerous other smaller industries which add to the activity of the place, and make of it one of the busiest hustling towns in the state.

Shawmut Industries.

In the summer of 1835 Ivory Low, Esq., bonded his farm, with the water power, to Milton Philbrook of this town for the round sum of $40,000 and soon after a permanent deal was made. Mr. Phelbrook's purchase included the Albert Low farm, the Fuller farm and most of the land now occupied by Shawmut. Mr. Philbrook built the first mill here, and for a short time the place was called Philbrook's Mills, which name was soon after changed to Lyon's Mills, for Alpheus Lyon, then a practicing lawyer in Waterville, became chief proprietor and built here the first flour mill in town. This was managed by Daniel Allen with good success. When Mr. Lyon sold out, Mr. H. C. Newhall who had established business at Fairfield village, bought the grist mill and fixtures and moved it down to that place, where it now stands occupied by Mr. Savage's roller mill.

Wing and Bates were the next proprietors of the water power here. They constructed a saw mill, as also did Messrs. E. J. & G. W. Lawrence, but both mills were burned after doing business for a few years. Both concerns rebuilt, Wing & Bates building a small saw mill, the other company building larger than before. Mr. Wing afterwards sold his interest to Mr. Bates, after which this mill was again burned.

E. J. and G. W. Lawrence continued, the name later becoming Lawrence, Phillips & Co. They built a big pulp mill which did a big business until that was burned in 1890. Before this time Boston parties had become interested in the concern, and had changed the name of the place once more from Somerset Mills, which it had been called for some time, to its present name, chosen because it was the name of the street in Boston where their office was located.

E. J. Lawrence with other men, adopting the firm name of Lawrence, Newhall & Co., built a ground wood pulp mill. Later Mr. Page entered the company which is now doing business under the name of Lawrence, Newhall & Page Co. The present sawmill was built about 1889. Approximately 300 men are regularly employed. The Company owns and runs both the ground wood mill and the long lumber mill being the largest business concern in the town. These owners have recently sold part or all of their rights to wealthy capitalists who contemplate greatly enlarging the business done here. We cannot say what the future of this mill community may be, nor what its future name may be, but it is within the realm of reason to say that this is destined to become one of the great manufacturing centers of the state.

The Keyes Fibre Company operates a pulp mill here where they manufacture pie plates. This business was opened last spring and is one of the most successful in town. Twelve hands are employed.

Other manufacturing concerns in town are given in the business directory.

Churches.

The progress and developement of the churches in town has been in fair ratio to the increase in population. Their early history shows some interesting facts. Elihu Bowerman in a letter written to John and Abigail Nichols when he was 90 years old, he wrote in regard to the "friends" as follows;

"In 1782 a first day meeting was set up in Vassalboro, and to this meeting Friends in Fairfield belonged, and for several years thereafter our roads were no better than cow paths and we had no horses. Men and women had to go on foot to attend our meeting in Vassalboro and it was very frequently the case that our women went on foot in the morning to attend meetings, and after meeting the same day come back on foos to Fairfield a distance of fourteen or fifteen miles. This going on foot was mostly done by our women in moderate weather, yet sometimes almost dangerous crossing the river. And in winter before we had horses I have known our young men several times to take the oxsled and some of our young women on it, carry them to Vassalboro meeting and back again on the same day. They went and came as lively and cheerful as though they had been in a superfine four wheeled carriage.

“ * * * And somewhere about 1788 a first day meeting was set up in Fairfield. This meeting was held in a log house covered with bark, and whilst our meeting was held in a log house we had many fine public friends come to see us from different places and one or more from old ingland.”

The friends belief, however, not being in full accord with that of many persons, the town early took measures to secure preaching. In 1793 they raised 30 pounds (£30) for the support of the gospel. In following years this salary was found to be too munificent a sum and it was gradually reduced until in 1808, the preacher was obliged to keep the wolf from the door with 60 dollars from the town. Two years after the incorporation of the town, it was voted to build a meeting house. This was a union house and built at Fairfield Centre. In a few years the town sold the pews to purchasers some of whom paid as high as $50 for a single pew. The pew owners afterward deeded them to Hiram Burgess, and he to the town in 1847, for the sum of $150. For two years previous to this purchase the subject of a town hall had been agitated. One party striving for a new hall, and the other advocating the purchase of the old meeting house. But the matter was amicably settled by the purchase of that original meeting house. The Friends house was built at North Fairfield about 10 years earlier and was twice rebuilt. Close by this is the old burying ground of the Friends, where lie the bodies of Elihu and Zacheus Bowerman, and many other pioneers of the 18th century.

FAIRFIELD CENTRE METHODIST SOCIETY.

The following is given by Mr. Ansel L. Nye, gathered from various sources chiefly from the History of Methodism in Maine by Stephen Allen and W. H. Pillsbury.

The first Methodist sermon preached in Fairfield was by Jesse Lee, March 5, 1794 at Fairfield Centre. He preached here again Aug. 24, 1808. There was a meeting house built here in the early settlement of the town, in which occasional meetings were held. Sometimes a minister was hired for six months. At one time the preaching is said to have been strongly Calvinistic. No awakening occurred until the Methodist itinerant came and preached a more hopeful gospel. The first revival was in 1809, under the labors of Ebenezer F. Newell, the circuit preacher; quite a number of persons were converted and a class was formed at that time; For several years the meetings were held at the house of Elisha Nye. The present meeting-house was built as a Union house in 1837 and the old meeting-house was left to do duty as a town house. The denomination has occupied the ground since the Methodist revival of 1809.

The following is a list of the preachers appointed to this charge from 1821 to 1877. The first three or four of these were appointed from the New England conference. In 1825 the Maine conference was formed and continued to appoint a preacher to this charge until 1877. This church is now united with Fairfield village and has regular preaching on Sunday P. M., by the pastor. The appointments have been Rev. S. Lovell appointed in 1821; S. Bray, 1822; T. Page, 1823; P. Munger, 1824-25; D. Hutchinson, 1826; E. Robinson, 1827; B. Jones, 1828; D. Wentworth, 1829; P. Burgess, 1830-31; J. Whiting, 1832; D. B. Randall, 1833; I. Lord, 1834; D. Fuller, 1835-36; Joshua Nye; 1837; S. P. Blake, 1838-39; S. Ambrose 1840; S. Bray 1841-42; C. L. Browning, 1843; H. W. Latham, 1844; J. Thwing, 1845; H. Nickerson, 1846; J. Gerry, 1847-48; S. B. Brackett, 1849-50; T. Hill 1851-52; W. H. Foster, 1853-54; Jas. Armstrong, 1855-56; John Allen, 1857-58; W. B. Bartlett, 1859-60; I. Lord, 1861-62; D. Waterhouse; 1863; A. Hatch, 1864-65; A. D. Dexter, 1866; T. J. True, 1867-68; C. Andrews, 1869; W. Waterhouse, 1870; J. Gibson, 1871-72; E. Gerry, 1873-74; J. Hayden, 1875; J. Fairbanks, 1876; T. J. True, 1877.

M. E. CHURCH, FAIRFIELD VILLAGE.

The following account is taken from the records made by Rev. Ezekial Robinson, up to 1859, and added to by succeeding pastors.

The first sermon preached by a Methodist in the village, then known as Kendalls Mills, was by Ezekial Robinson, then laboring on the Fairfield Circuit. In the summer of 1827 Rev. Mr. Robinson had been removed from his appointment at Bristol to take the place of D. Hutchinson who had been transferred to the stewardship of the Maine Wesleyan Seminary. Miss Louisa Emery, whose parents lived at the village, was teaching the district school on the Ridge where Mr. Robinson held a class, and occasionally preached. She experienced religion and desired to be baptized by immersion near her father's home. After preaching at Nye's Corner during the Sabbath the minister came down to the village and preached at the old schoolhouse, then situated a few rods north of the site of the present church; and baptized her at the old landing just above the falls.

In 1831 Rev. Joshua Nye, a local preacher, began preaching at the village, preaching regularly once a month. Two years after this he removed to the village where he remained until his death in 1856, serving the church and community faithfully and well for a long time. He was called "Father Nye" by his devoted people, and with the aid of several others who assisted in the work from time to time, placed this society on a firm working basis.

In the early part of 1839 a lot of land was presented to the society by Messrs John and Samuel Kendall and preparations were at once made to build a house of worship. This was to be 60 feet long and 40 feet wide, to be called the "Union Meeting house," as all the people in the community were interested in it. This house was dedicated the following July, and regularly occupied by Rev. Mr. Nye, although the Universalist members occasionally employed a preacher of their own.

In 1845 Rev. J. Thwing commenced preaching once a month being stationed on this circuit. Father Nye preached the remaining Sabbaths. Others of the circuit preachers followed.

In 1850 the village having become quite a flourishing business center and the church society being well strengthened, Rev. Cornelius Stone was appointed the regular pastor, but after one year the work was again turned over to Father Nye. At this time there were 70 members, in full standing.

In 1852 the church was owned and provided for equally by the Congregationalists and Methodists. The Methodists were served by the pastors of the Waterville charge for a few years until 1858, when Rev. Mr. Robinson was appointed to the circuit. The belfry was added in 1856. Those appointed to this charge succeeding Mr. Robinson were Rev. W. Rideout, appointed in 1859, serving until the next appointment; B. Foster, 1861; Wm. H. Strout, 1863; J. Mitchell, 1864; J. W. Hathaway, 1865; A. R. Sylvester, 1866; True P. Adams, 1868; D. B. Randall, 1870, who served three years, and raised the church adding the lecture room as a lower story; Rev. H. B. Abbott, 1873; Perry Chandler, 1875; K. Atkinson, 1877; C. F. Allen, 1879; C. Munger, 1881; J. A. Corey, 1882; D. B. Holt, 1885; E. L. Allen, 1888; H. H. Clark, 1889; Wm. S. Fitch, 1890; H. Chase, 1891; O. S. Pilsbury, 1895; G. R. Palmer, 1900. He served the church until the appointment of Rev. J. H. Roberts by the last Maine Conference.

The parsonage, situated at No. 12 Western Ave. was purchased in 1895 at a cost of $1500.

UNIVERSALIST.

This is perhaps the next oldest society in town to the Methodists, with whom they worshipped in the Union, now the Methodist church, in the early days. The Universalists sold out their interests in the union house and in 1856 built the Universalist Meeting house. We have been unable to find the records of this early society but begin with the incorporation of the present Parish, which took place on Nov.

10, 1885. The meeting petitioned for by R. H. Aldrich, V. R. Connor, F. P. Wing, J. P. Totman and H. F. Thompson met at the old Universalist church. Rev. R. H. Aldrich was the first pastor of the organization, it being connected with the Waterville charge where he was then located. The society bought out the remaining pewholders of the old church, three in number, and took possession of the edifice. In 1886 a lot was bought by subscription for the location of a new church on High St., but it was decided to remodel the old structure which was done during the pastorate of Rev. S. G. Davis who came to the church in 1889. Rev. E. L. Houghton came to the church in 1891 remaining about four years. After he completed his work in 1894 the pulpit was filled by supplies until the arrival of Rev. J. F. Rhodes in 1898. The pipe organ was purchased in 1898 by subscription and placed in the church. This is run by water motor which was put in at a cost of $1000. In 1902 Rev. Mr. Rhodes was succeeded by Rev. James Peardon the present efficient and able pastor.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

The Baptist Society was organized on Sept. 18, 1876, with twelve charter members, in the Chapel which had been dedicated the previous year. Rev. B. F. Shaw was chosen the first pastor, Andrew Bradbury, clerk, and David Hanscom, deacon. Soon after the organization eleven other members joined them, and others continued to increase the membership until it became a strong working church society. Rev. Mr.

Shaw served as pastor until 1878 when J. D. Pope was called to serve the parish. He remained one year, Rev. Frank Jones followed him remaining but three months. Rev. C. C. Tilley succeeded him, and served until 1882. During his pastorate the parsonage, situated just north of the church on Newhall St. was erected. This is a convenient and beautiful pastor's home, and adds very materially to the attractiveness of the parish. Rev. N. D. Curtis came in 1885, remaining until his decease in 1891; Rev. A. K. P. Small served from 1891 to 1893; Rev. N. T. Dutton, from 1893 to 1896; Rev. E. N. Fletcher, 1896 to '98; Rev. H. M. Ives, 1898 until March 29, 1904, since which time the church has had no regular pastor but has maintained regular services, the pulpit being filled by supplies.

During the pastorate of Mr. Emery the stable was added to the parsonage at a cost of $300, and $650 of the debt paid.

The Chapel was improved and enlarged in 1888, costing $2600. It was rededicated Feb. 28, 1887. The bell was hung about this time, the gift of the Newton Baptist Church. The church was again remodeled 1899 and the vestry added. This is now one of the most prosperous societies in the village, having the support of many loyal members. A. L. Plummer of Benton is the church clerk.

CHURCH OF THE IMMACULATE HEART OF MARY.

There were many faithful Catholics in Fairfield long before the church of The Immaculate Heart of Mary was built, or thought of, and the fact that they had no church building of their own in which to worship was, to them, no reason for any lack of religious enthusiasm.

Many of the earlier Catholics went to Waterville every Sunday to attend Mass, others went to a school house on Main street, in Fairfield, where Mass was said once a month.

It is in this school house that Mass was first said in the town of Fairfield. To this place Father Halde came once a month. For a long time this was the only Catholic service held in Fairfield. For any further spiritual guidance the faithful of Fairfield were obliged to go to Waterville.

Fairfield has been a mission parish since 1870 and up to the time of the appointment of Rev. Louis Bergeron it was under the charge of the pastor of the church at Waterville. Rev. Father Halde attended for a long time and Rev. Father Charland, who is the present pastor of St. Francis de Sales' church at Waterville, also had charge for a number of years.

It was during Father Charland's administration of the affairs of the church, that the first chapel was built in Fairfield. This building was put up in 1880, but it was soon seen that it was not large enough to accomodate all the Catholics. Father Charland was succeeded by Rev. Louis Bergeron, who was the first resident pastor appointed to Fairfield.

Early in his church work, Father Bergeron saw that a larger building was needed, and with much energy he went at the work of raising funds for the erection of a new church building. So earnest were his efforts, and so effective the work he did that the corner stone of the new building was laid in August, 1892. The next year saw the completion of the building and on the 16th day of July, 1893, the church was dedicated.

The dedicatory services were conducted by the Right Rev. Bishop Healy, of Portland, Me., assisted by Rev. Joseph Gory and Rev. Louis Bergeron, and there was a large attendance.

The old chapel was moved over near the new church building and is now used as a winter chapel or vestry. In the upper part a hall has been made with a floor space of 32 by 45 feet. It is used for sociables and other entertainments.

The cost of the present church was about $9,000 and through the splendid efforts of Father Bergeron some $5200 of this amount was raised leaving a debt of about $3,800.

Father Bergeron was succeeded by Fr. P. A. Jouvin, Dec. 1, 1899. Since Fr. Jouvin took charge of the parish he has bought a rectory at a cost of $2500 and has paid $2000 on the old debt. The church has also been improved and the rectory furnished.

The church has a membership of about 200 families and includes some of the best people of Fairfield.

Besides his duties in Fairfield village Fr. Jouvin has charge of the mission at Shawmut where there is a good Catholic community of about 40 families.

SHAWMUT CHURCH.

The church edifice at Shawmut was erected as an Episcopal house about fifteen years ago, but few services were held for some time in the church. Union Church Society was also formed in the village and held its meetings in the old Club Room, where the old "Iron Clads" had formerly met. Members of this organization were largely Baptists but contained representatives of other denominations. Last spring the church was bought by subscription for the Union Society. It has been moved and refitted into a convenient church home. It is now occupied regularly, but no pastor is located here.

Besides these Church societies there is a Free Baptist Society, but this is now doing but little active work, being weakened by the removal or death of many of its chief supporters. The Chapel has recently been sold to the Catholic Societies of Christopher Columbus and St. John Baptist for a society hall.

The Advents have a Hall where they worship in the village. There is also a Union Mission where regular meetings are held.

School Items.

From the earliest the residents of Fairfield have taken an active interest in education. The sacrifices made to this end by the first comers was probably greater than any made today although the figures they give us of the amounts they raised for this purpose would be of an insignificant value today. We find that the town was divided into school districts, and places selected for the erection of schoolhouses in 1793. These divisions were made by Josiah Burgess and Daniel Shepherd.

It may be interesting to give the boundaries of the five districts or "classes" as they were called. They are given as follows: Class 1: To begin at the northern part of the town and to extend south as far as to include John Burton and the Davises, and John Shepherd; the center to be at the Friends' Meeting House. Class 2: To begin at John Burton's south line and include Elisha Nye and extend to Winslow line, and as far westerly as to Nathan Cannon and Capt. Lander's; the center to be in the south side of Josiah Burgess' lot on the road that goes to Chase's Mills. Class 3: To include James Lawrence, Thomas Blackwell, and all the inhabitants on town lots belonging to the town of Fairfield; the center to be near Seth Bartlett's. Class 4: To begin at the north part of the town and to extend south on the River to Edward Emery's south line; the center to be at Mr. Bodfish's. Class 5: To begin at Edward Emery's south line and to extend to Winslow line; the center to be at Solomon Spencer's.

We find that the following year the town raised the sum of £60 for schools and houses (also £10 for preaching). "Class Masters" were chosen for the several "classes." In 1803 we find there were 11 districts, as they were then called; in 1826 this number had increased to 15; and in 1879 there were 18.

The advance in management and effectiveness of the public schools of this town have not been one whit behind the increasing number of schools established, although today their effectiveness cannot be estimated on this principle. In 1875 the first school supervisor was elected to look after the town schools, James Plummer being chosen for the work. New and modern books, and ideas, for the management of town schools have been adopted, new houses erected as the needs of the pupils demanded, and their welfare and prosperity have ever remained close to the hearts of this people who well know the value of education.

The schools the past year showed a remarkable advance in the attendance. In 1903 there were 689 scholars registered in town outside of the high school, this year there were 765 registered. There are now 22 schools in town, while three more will be opened at the fall session. Of these schools 10 are rural, 10 in the village, and 2 at Shawmut; the three new ones to be opened are rural. The registration in the village the past year was 569, in the rural schools 196.

A new course in music is to be instituted this fall throughout the public schools from which much is expected. Mr. Drew, the superintendent, is giving much attention to increase the efficiency of the schools and to keep them abreast of modern and up-to-date methods.

High School.

In the year 1874, $500 was raised for a free high school in this town. This was the beginning of higher education in Fairfield, but the instruction given here at this time was hardly more than that received in the regular schools by the more advanced pupils. The direct object of these schools was to offer to the older and more advanced pupils a chance to attend school during the winter months. The sum of $400 was raised annually for the support of the High school which gradually but surely raised its standard of scholarship.

This is now a fitting school for the Colleges, having long since become an independent institution. Ten years ago Walter Francis Kenrick began as principal of the school, and to him and his untiring endeavors is due the strength and efficiency of the present High school. He remained for several years, being succeeded in 1903 by Guy C. Healey, who did excellent work for one year. Harry Emery Pratt has been engaged for the coming school year.

Miss Jennie M. Emery is the First Assistant, Merlin Joy, Second Assistant. The registration in 1903 was 66, in 1904 it had increased to 91, an increase of over 37 per cent. There is now the prospect of a large entering class for the fall term. The school is not provided with a suitable building, but it is hoped that the town will ere long be provided with such a building that this school may be enabled to do yet more valuable work.

Good Will Farm.

Good Will Farm, the home for boys, which has now acquired a world wide reputation, was early conceived in the mind of its founder and director, Rev. George W. Hinckley. In Rev. Mr. Hinckley's book "The Story of Good Will Farm" he writes "In early life I thirsted for an education which I could not secure. When a small boy, one of my schoolmates, the only son of his widowed mother, was sentenced to the State Reform School. The specific crime for which he was sentenced was stealing food from a workingman's dinner pail. He was not a vicious boy. He was hungry. For three days he had been dinnerless. Over his arrest I was sorrowful and indignant. As I was only a boy I could not understand why people did not take an interest in the lad before he put his hand into that dinner pail, instead of waiting until hunger had driven him to petty crime. It was then that I began to fancy I would sometime become a man. If I became a man I would build a house; I would build houses, and if I knew of a boy in peril as that boy had been, I would extend a helping hand."

By his constant devotion to this purpose, and through his strong faith in Divine Providence, this man who has become one of the greatest philanthropists in the country, has fully realized this dream of his childhood.

When he had reached young manhood he began practical work toward the fulfillment of this plan. He was encouraged by many, and by a trustee of Mt. Hermon was offered the gift of a farm in Connecticut on which were located two houses, but Mr. Hinckley had dreamed of a home for boys in Maine, and did not accept this tempting offer. He thought strongly of purchasing a farm in Fayette, again of one in Newport, both in Maine, but did not feel just satisfied with either location for the development of the extensive plans which he had in mind. He had nearly decided to locate in Fayette however when he went to Fairfield where he met the editor of the Journal. He told Mr. Hinckley of the location at East Fairfield, and at once they went to look at the place.

When they drove up in front of the Chase farmhouse—now Good Will Cottage—Mr. Hinckley said to the editor “This is the place,” and in his heart he thanked God for directing him thither.

The farm contained 125 acres, and was purchased in June 1889. Mr. Hinckley had for some time been collecting a fund for this purpose, but found it took all the money in the Boys’ Fund to purchase the farm. Sunday school classes organized themselves into clubs to raise money for its support. These were called Good Will Clubs, hence the name Good Will Cottage, and Good Will Farm.

The old farmhouse was cleaned up during the summer and put in readiness for the work. On the first day of September it was formally opened for boys when three Massachusetts lads were taken into its keeping. In November following the Good Will Home Association was organized under the general laws of the State of Maine and the following officers elected : President, Moses Gidding, Bangor; Vice-President, J. B. Mayo, Foxcroft; Secretary, N. W. Brainard, Fairfield; Treasurer, George Cushing, Skowhegan; also a board of Trustees and a board of Directors were elected, and a code of by-laws adopted.

Thus was begun this noble work which has met with such phenomenal success in its advancement. It is beyond the scope of this brief narrative to give a detailed account of the working of the institution, but the following is a brief resume of its development.

Sunshine Cottage was added in 1890, and dedicated Sept. 1. Just one year from that day Golden Rule Cottage was dedicated, having been erected the preceeding summer. This was the first cottage constructed especially for the work. Prospect Cottage was the next to be constructed. This was dedicated September 1, 1891, to be used as an office, schools, etc. During the year following this event C. M. Bailey of Winthrop became interested in the work, and told Mr. Hinckley that he might build a cottage for 15 boys at his expense; this cottage—Bailey Cottage—was dedicated the first day of the following September and Fogg Cottage, the gift of H. H. Fogg of Bangor, was dedicated at the same time.

Christian Endeavor Cottage was the next to be opened, although two attempts had been made to construct a much needed schoolhouse. Mary Louise Hall Cottage was dedicated Dec. 31, 1895; and the Chas. E. Moody school building the following day.

But Mr. Hinckley had even a broader view than this for he had for some time considered the need of a similar home for homeless girls who were as destitute of care and protection as the boys had been. He, however, hoped to begin on a much larger scale than he had been able to with the work for the boys. But this was not so to be, for the first donations received were from two of the boys, who had been rewarded five cents apiece for having washed dishes two weeks without breaking a dish. This was to them perhaps the only money they received for the year, but they voluntarily gave it to Mr. Hinckley for the Girls' Fund.

Elizabeth Wilcox Smith Cottage was the first to be constructed for the Girls Home. This was given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Smith in memory of their deceased daughter.

The land was purchased by Hon. E. S. Converse of Malden, Mass. This home was located about one mile from the Boys Home and is now a part of the Good Will Farm. Moody Memorial Chapel, dedicated June 16, 1897 was located between these two Homes for the convenience of both, and is a beautiful stone building. Grange Cottage was built the same summer. Emily F. Ryerson Memorial School Building was constructed during the summer of 1900.

The home for boys was meanwhile progressing in a remarkable manner. The "Buckminster", a dormitory for the older boys; and the "Quincy" the beautiful Manual training building, both dedicated last year, were the next to be opened. These are excellent modern structures, and all are well fitted to do the work they were intended to do.

Besides the large area now occupied in Fairfield, the Good Will Assembly Association owns the assembly grounds, known as the "Pines" across the river in Clinton. This beautiful pine grove as also the Auditorium erected within it, is the gift of Walter M. Smith. And its limit is not yet reached for there are yet boys and girls who need the help which it is the avowed object of this institution to give. Too much praise cannot be given to benevolent men and women who have so generously and devotedly aided in this work, or to the Man who has given to the work the undivided force and value of his strong and purposeful career.

The Bancroft-Foote House, a home for boys now being erected will be dedicated in September. Thus the work is increasing, and will increase from year to year. One hundred and ten boys, and thirty girls are now cared for on the Farm, while many more might well be provided for were there sufficient accommodations for their keeping.

The boys at the farm are not only provided with a home in which to grow up, but are taught to work in the several branches which will prepare them for practical and useful citizenship. They do most of their own work, cultivate the farms, work in the greenhouse, laundry, kitchen and workshop. The girls also are instructed as they should be in the private homes; how to become neat and practical housekeepers, or to become selfsupporting.

This is only a temporary home for any of its occupants as they are sent out to homes throughout the United States just as they are taken from any part of the country whenever they are found in need of such a home.

The Good Will Record is regularly published at the Farm much of the work of its publication being under the especial care of the boys.

Good Will Farm railroad station accommodates the Home. The boys do some of the work here also. It is doubtful if this spot had ever been selected for the school if it had not been so closely connected with the world by railroad facilities. Many visitors come to the place. These are always accorded a hearty welcome. The Railroad station and Postoffice at East Fairfield, sometimes called Pishon's Ferry, and long known as East Fairfield, has, this summer, been changed to "Hinckley" in honor of the man who has so successfully directed this philanthropic institution.

Facts of Interest.

VILLAGE CORPORATION.

This village was incorporated as such in March 1856, under the name of Kendall's Mills Village Corporation. The first officers were: E. W. McFadden, Clerk, Joseph F. Nye, Treas. and Col., Orin Woodman, E. G. Pratt and Geo. Richardson, Assessors.

The Corporation maintains a fire department, a night watchman and a day police, the water department, and electric lights. For these several items, and the cost of incidentals and management the corporation last year raised $5300. The present officers of the Corporation are: G. G. Weeks, W. W. Nye, Neil Gregory, Assessors; A. H. Totman, Clerk; G. D. Richardson Chief Engineer; W. F. Harrington, Chief of Police; C. E. Duren, Collector; and E. Kelley, Treasurer.

A fire department has been maintained ever since 1856 when the old Victor Engine was brought to town. The Victor fire company was formed July 15, the meeting being held in the North schoolhouse, James F. Moses being chosen Foreman.

There is now excellent steamer and hydrant service throughout the entire village. The Steamer "Amoskeag" now in use was bought in Manchester, N. H. in 1882. The engine house centrally located on Bridge street was built the same year.

The electric lighting plant was put in about 1886 when ten of Fairfield's most prominent citizens invested in the power. The plant was later sold to the Waterville and Fairfield Light and Power Co., which company operates the lighting system of both places, and also the efficient railroad system which so closely connects this village with an enterprising city.

LAWRENCE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

This beautiful structure, the gift of one of Fairfield's most esteemed citizens, is the pride of the village; and justly so for any town would be proud of such a beautiful library building.

This was erected in 1901 on a lot given by Mrs. Newhall, and is situated in the prettiest part of the village, not far from the Railroad station, on Lawrence Ave. The building is a beautiful stone structure, artistically finished and decorated. It was dedicated July 24, 1901; Hezekiah Butterworth, the well known writer, delivering the address. The building was constructed by Horace Purington & Co., from designs by W. R. Miller. The late F. E. McFadden assisting largely in the inside decorations.

Frances Kenrick has served as librarian since it was opened. She is now assisted by Mrs. Cora Sturtevant. The library contains about 5000 volumes, while there are 29 regular periodical publications found upon its tables.

The last report of the librarian shows an accession of books and periodicals during the past year as follows. Books:—by purchase, Lawrence fund, 167; Newhall fund, 167; by gift 28; state documents, 60; Periodicals:—by purchase, 13; by gift, 16. Circulation:—books given out for home reading, 13,334—these being about half fiction. The borrowers list contains the names of 1057 patrons.

Mr. Lawrence and Mrs. Newhall, the donors, give annually for its support the sum of $500, while the town raises the sum of $600.

VICTOR GRANGE.

Victor Grange, No. 49, was organized October 29, 1874 with 29 charter members. This is one of the most prosperous and successful granges in the state and has met with a remarkable growth. Its present membership is 242. A new Hall has just been erected at Fairfield Center, the home of the organization. This building was dedicated October 1, 1903; and is one of which its many members are proud.

The present officers of the grange are:—Master, W. H. Balentine; Overseer, Chas. M. Williams; Lecturer, Ralph Hoxie; Steward, Frank E. Sawyer; Asst. Steward, L. P. Ricker; Chaplain, Clara Hoxie; Treasurer, F. M. Archer; Sec., H. T. Choate; Gate-keeper, George Tobey; Ceres, Kate R. Balentine; Pomona, Annie Sawyer; Flora, Nora Goodwin; Lady Asst. Steward, Alice M. Ricker; Executive Com., Geo. T. Tibbetts, Chas. Hoxie, Chas. L. Tobey, and the Master and Sec'y, members ex-officio.

THE GERALD

THE GERALD HOTEL.

The Gerald, known to the traveling public throughout the country as Maine's most elegant hotel, was opened June 4, 1900, and has never wanted for guests since. The finely equipped and carefully managed house is down-to-date in every particular, the equal in every respect except number of rooms to the great high-class hosteleries of Boston and New York. It was built by the Hon. Amos F. Gerald and is a pretentious pressed brick structure, highly ornamented and with large plate glass windows. The threshold is a single piece of cut granite weighing 16 tons, the largest ever quarried in Maine. Fine stores occupy the street floor, and on the three upper floors are thirty rooms. Connected with each room is a bath, and every room contains a telephone and all other facilities for comfort and good cheer. The dining room is a marvel of elegance, decorated by Aiken, and unsurpassed anywhere. The cusine of The Gerald is fully in keeping with the other superb features, and the general atmosphere of the house bespeaks all the luxury of a refined home. Mr. W. J. Bradbury, the energetic and progressive proprietor is not only widely known to the traveling public, but best of all to the citizens of this section of the State, who hold him in high esteem. He was postmaster here 8 years and is a prominent Odd Fellow and member of various fraternal organizations. Mr. Bradbury also manages the Opera House, and from time to time plays excellent attractions.

WATERVILLE & FAIRFIELD RAILWAY & LIGHT CO.

The Fairfield plant of the Waterville & Fairfield Railway & Light Co., located on Island Street, is modern and finely equipped. It has 7 dynamos, capacity, 125 K. W., for railway, one 62 K., for railway; 500 volt machine; 100 K. W., for power; one 180 K. W., 60 cycle alternator, 2200 volts; one 425-light Brush Arc machine and one 50-light T. H. Arc machine. There is also a storage battery of 165 cells run in connection with the railway and an auxiliary steam plant of 350 horse-power. Six competent men are employed. The company was incorporated in 1891 and has been of great benefit to Fairfield and vicinity. Power is furnished for factories and light for Fairfield and Waterville. The fine plant is in charge of B. F. Maxfield, an efficient and expert electrician. Mr. Maxfield also has charge of another electric light station here, called Station No. 2.

THE FAIRFIELD JOURNAL.

The Fairfield Journal is one of the breeziest most up-to-date newspapers of the state. This was established in 1862 since which time it has continued regularly, and has improved and enlarged with the growth and development of the place where it is so well recognized as an authority on all local happenings. Mr. A. C. Ladd took possession of the Journal in 1897. He is also interested in several other local state papers, while other members of his family own different publications in different parts of the state.

Public Men.

HON. STEPHEN A. NYE.

Perhaps no one man has done more for the town of Fairfield than Stephen A. Nye, who comes of old Fairfield stock and has been in business here for many years. He carried on a very extensive lumbering business here in the days when this village was a lumbering center. Since 1874 he has been actively interested in the manufacture of furniture at the plant located near the railroad station, which he established in that year. Mr. Nye has been a member of both the House of Representatives and the Senate serving in the most satisfactory manner in both branches of the Legislature. He has ever taken a prominent part in all public affairs, doing much for the improvement and advancement of the town and state.

HON. AMOS F. GERALD.

Hon. Amos F. Gerald, one of Maine's most prominent financiers and industrial promoters, is a native of Benton and 63 years of age. When 20 years old he went to California to win a position in the world and lay the foundation for fame and fortune. After three years, ill health compelled him to return home, but his ambition was not curtailed or energy daunted. He commenced the manufacture of curtain rollers, and possessing the inventive faculty patented several articles that brought him considerable money. This capital gave him his start, and with a ready grasp of the possibilities of electricity as a power that must revolutionize the world's work, he established a lighting plant in his own little village, the first in Maine. This was followed by the promotion of electric street railways in various sections of the State of which he is justly styled king having promoted and built, more than a dozen. Mr. Gerald is now developing the water plant at Fowler's falls on the Sebasticook river, $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles above Benton Falls. A dam getting a head of 25 feet and some 1000 horse power will be built. Electric generators will be established and a line of wire extended to the Kennebec river, supplying power to industries in Fairfield and Waterville. It is probable, also, that this power will be employed to run cars on a trolley road between Waterville and Augusta. Mr. Gerald has extensive real estate and manufacturing interests in Maine, and is a firm believer in the State's future progress and prosperity. As a citizen of Fairfield he is public-spirited and loyal to its advancement. The town's handsome hotel, "The Gerald," spoken of elsewhere, is his residence. Mr. Gerald is a persistent worker, always finishes what he undertakes in the most competent manner. Takes great pride in the prosperity and popularity of his town and true to his friends. Always ready to do his part in any position he may be placed.

GEN. SELDEN CONNOR.

Gen. Selden Connor, who won many military honors and promotions by his gallantry and efficient service in the Civil war, was a native of Fairfield, being the son of William Connor, one of the leading men of the town during the past century. After the war Gen. Connor became connected with public affairs, and was Governor of the state in 1876.

Fairfield's list of public servants and benefactors does not end with the mention of a few names. Hon. John G. Huntington who served as Governor of the state in 1830 resided in this town about 1854. The Hon. Wm. B. Snell, a Judge of the Municipal Court at Washington went from this town.

Hon. Josiah Drummond of Portland was a descendant of one of Fairfield's old families, and was said to be an honest lawyer, "which is admitted by some to be the noblest work of God," said N. W. Brainard, Esq. in his historical sketch of Fairfield which he gave at the Centennial Celebration which was celebrated here in 1888. Mr. Brainard comes from one of the most noted families of the town of Fairfield, and should be mentioned as one of the able men who have been raised within the borders of this town.

There are also many others whom we might mention, but limited space forbids further comment.

In these families, in addition to the resident living members, the names of the non-resident members are included.
